

Day 4 journal entry

Samantha Sun

What are your main takeaways from this first half of your internship and how do you plan to carry those lessons into your second week?

My main takeaways are that it's important to network and reach out to mentors or people we admire and that it's equally important to maintain the connection throughout the year so they remember who I am. I plan to use my second week as a way to reach out to people who are doing jobs/careers that I am interested in learning more about, such as UX design. I also might try to connect with mentors, peers, and Red Hat employees through LinkedIn or setting up a meeting (virtual or in person). I am excited to continue growing my connections and meeting new people.
